DETAILED ACTION

1. The Request for Continued Examination filed on 11/01/2005 has been fully considered.
2. Claims 22, 26, 27, 33, 37, 38, 44, 48 and 49 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 22, 27, 33, 38, 44 and 49 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kawai et al. (EP 0 896 883 A1) in view of Romano, Jr. et al. (US 6,020,032) and Abe et al. (US 5,372,884).

Kawai discloses a recording sheet comprising a substrate and an ink absorbing layer containing a cationic compound having at least crosslinking groups (abstract). The substrate includes non-woven cloth [0015]. Examples of a cationic monomer are disclosed in [0023], and examples of a crosslinking monomer are disclosed in [0024]. The ink absorbing layer further comprises UV absorber [0062]. The recording sheet is formed by coating a composition for forming the ink absorbing layer onto the substrate, and heating the coated substrate at a temperature ranging from 50 to 150 degree C [0067]. An image is printed on the ink absorbing layer using an ink jet ink [0072]. The experimental modification of this prior art in order to ascertain optimum operating conditions fails to render applicants' claims patentable in the absence of unexpected results. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to adjust the content of the UV absorber in order to optimize the light stabilizing properties of the layer. A prima facie case of obviousness may be rebutted, however, where the results of the optimizing variable, which is known to be result-effective, are unexpectedly good. In re Boesch and Slaney, 205 USPQ 215. Furthermore, the use of azole-containing compound as a UV absorber is well known in the art (see Abe col. 4, line 35).

Kawai fails to teach that the ink jet ink is anionic.

Romano teaches an ink jet recording element comprising a support, a gloss-enhancing layer, and an ink receptive layer for an ink jet image (abstract). Romano further teaches the use typical ink jet ink containing anionic dye (col. 4, line 40)

Kawai and Romano are analogous art because they are from the same field of endeavor that is the ink jet recording art. At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to combine the ink jet ink of Romano with the invention of Kawai so as to mordant or fix the anionic dye with the cationic compound of the ink absorbing layer.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 26, 37 and 48 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. The combination of the prior arts neither teaches nor suggests a printed article having the claimed charge density of at least about 2 milliequivalents per gram.
